Insulation sale! 15% off! That's the effect of the new income tax credit for home improvements that save energy. Fifteen per cent of the cost up to a total cost of $2,000 may be subtracted from the federal income tax that would otherwise be due. The maximum credit is $300.

The improvements that qualify for the credit include the addition of fiber glass, rock wool, or other insulation, storm windows or doors, caulking, weatherstripping, night setback thermostats, and replacement burners for furnaces or boilers.

If insulation is installed by a contractor, the credit may be taken for the entire cost, labor as well as materials. The credit is based upon the cost of materials for do-it-yourself work.

Renters as well as owners are eligible. The credit is for improvements made to a taxpayer's principal residence, either a house or an apartment but not a vacation home. The dwelling must have been built before April 20, 1977.

Filing Deadline Approaches For Thousands of Virginians

RICHMOND - With the April 16 filing deadline rapidly approaching, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) estimates that about 810,000 (89% of a projected 2,089,000 individual returns) Virginia taxpayers have yet to file their 1978 Federal individual income tax returns. Of that number, some 1,550 of them are from Appomattox County.

Taxpayers who cannot complete their 1040 forms by April 16 can receive an automatic 2-month extension of time to file by submitting Form 4868, "Application for Automatic Extension of Time to File U.S. Individual Income Tax Return," with IRS.

The form should be filled out in duplicate, with the original filed on or before the normal April 16 date, accompanied by payment of any tax due, or estimated to be due, at the time. Form 4868 is only an extension of time for filing the return, not for payment of tax due. The duplicate of the Form 4868 is then filed with Form 1040, which must be used in conjunction with an extension.

If the amount of tax paid with the Form 4868 does not cover the total liability, the taxpayer will be charged interest and possibly additional penalties.

Another IRS reminder: changes to a return already filed are made by using Form 1040X, which generally can be used to amend a return any time during the three years following the due date (including extension) of the original.

And a final caution from the IRS: last-minute filers tend to rush through the process of completing their returns, causing some unnecessary errors in many cases. Take time to re-check the accuracy before mailing the forms.

For answers to last-minute tax questions as well as inquiries about extensions or amended returns, call IRS toll-free weekdays, 8:15 a.m. - 4:30 p.m., 1-800-552-9500.

Those taxpayers insisting on face-to-face assistance can expect extensive waiting times at all IRS offices in Virginia during this period. Walk-in help is available in the 2316 Atherholt Road Office, Lynchburg, weekdays from 8:15 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

New Windmill Will Generate Electricity

The U.S. Department of Energy is developing a new windmill to convert wind-power to either electrical or mechanical energy—energy that could be used for deep well irrigation.

A prototype of the new windmill, called the Giromill (from "cyclogiro windmill"), is now under construction. The Giromill employs a new design concept—vertical blades rotating in merry-go-round fashion around a vertical central shaft. This design allows the Giromill to accommodate winds from any direction without major adjustments.

The prototype will stand 125 feet high and will consist of a 60-foot steel tower structure, three 42-foot vertical blades, and an electric generator or gear box. The Giromill will generate 40-kilowats or 53 horsepower—enough for 16 homes. It is believed that the Giromill could cost less to build than a conventional windmill of equal electrical capacity.

One possible application of the Giromill would be for deep well irrigation. Irrigation pumps are employed by farmers throughout the plains region of the United States. To power some of these pumps, farmers rely on locally available natural gas—supplies of which are costly and sometimes uncertain. The 40-kilowatt power could also provide power to smaller isolated communities in mountainous areas, islands or along coastal regions where adequate wind prevails.

Performance testing and verification of the Giromill prototype will begin early in 1980 at the Department of Energy's Small Wind Energy Conversion Systems Center in Rocky Flats, Colorado.

For helpful literature on ground water—availability, costs and uses—send 50¢ for the "Ground Water Information Kit" to Ground Water Council, 221 N. LaSalle, Chicago, IL 60601.

The average helicopter can cruise one mile every 48 seconds.
